A local Scotchman, well known for his thrift, treated himself to the picture show on Saturday night. After he got his change, he still hung around the window. "Isn't your change right?" the lady ticket seller asked. "Aye, it's right," grumbled the Scot, "but only just right."

Two big cattle barns on the Prince of Wales' ranch near High River were destroyed by fire on Monday night, with a loss of around $18,000. A $1,000 champion cow, a $600 champion heifer and a $600 yearling heifer were among the animals destroyed.

THOMAS H. SHEPHERD, COWLEY PIONEER, DIES

Another of Alberta's pioneers, in the person of Thomas H. Shepherd, who passed on to the Great Beyond on Tuesday morning in the Calgary general hospital, to where he had been removed for treatment from his home here several days prior to his death, will be mourned by friends far and wide in this part of the province. Mr. Shepherd came to this district thirty-one years ago, and in his early manhood homesteaded on the Middle Fork river, two and a half miles north of town, where he has since resided, and carried on with mixed farming. The funeral, which was largely attended, took place from the United church to the Cowley cemetery, where interment took place Wednesday afternoon at 2:30. Rev. M. Whitmore, of Pincher Creek, took charge of the services at the church, while the L.O. O.F. performed their last rites at the grave side. Floral offerings were many and beautiful. The cortege which followed the departed to his last resting place was a mile long. The loss of Mr. Shepherd as a neighbor and citizen will be keenly felt, as he was widely known and well liked by a host of friends and acquaintances. He leaves to mourn his loss, his sister, Mrs. Latta and her three daughters, Mrs. Lawrence Cl-land, Mrs. Irwin and Mrs. C. Irwin (of Kimberley, B.C.) and their families; also a brother at Portage la Prairie and sister, Mrs. Armstrong, at Winnipeg. The community joins in deepest sympathy for the bereaved ones.

Cowley school was fortunate this year in winning sweepstakes at the school fair, the prize being a silver cup. Both Cowfolds and Birmis school districts gave Cowley a close shave in endeavoring to capture this trophy.

His Lordship Bishop Sherman, of Calgary, visited St. Aiden's church here on Sunday last, where he delivered an able discourse, taking as his subject "I am the door." A large congregation was in attendance.

Mrs. Sid. Crayford, of the North Fork, is dangerously ill, we are sorry to say.

E. Baines, accompanied by Mrs. McEwen and daughter Doris, were visitors to town on Sunday.

Rev. M. Whitmore, of Pincher Creek, will conduct divine service in the United church here on Sunday at 3 p.m.

SEATTLE BOCKEY STAYS MOVING EAST

Seattle, Oct. 21—Johnny Houbregs, the Carnera of the ice, goes to the Boston Bruins on trial; Hank Dyk and Pete Billefeulle will score their goals for the Syracuse club of the International league, and more deals are to be made as the Seattle Eskimos continue the task of breaking up their team of the Pacific coast hockey league.

Houbregs' ultimate sale to the Bruins depending on the showing the big boy makes under the big top. If he doesn't make good, he will be turned back next spring.

Billefeulle and Dyck are loaned to Syracuse, with the International club holding the option of purchase at the end of the season.

Houbregs is a Belgian boy by birth, who has only one year of professional hockey behind him. He was picked up while playing amateur hockey with Dave Kemp, at Blaimore last year. Dyck came from Calgary Canadians. Billefeulle came here, together with Bobby Connors, from the Detroit Falcons. The pair of them, and "Red" Stuart, made up Seattle's $22,500 line.

Connors was killed last summer in a diving accident.

The name of Gordon Savage, star defence man, was added Tuesday to the list of players being disposed of by the Seattle club in the Pacific Coast Hockey League in the breaking up of the club.

Savage will accompany his two teammates, Pete Billefeulle and Hank Dyck, to Syracuse, where the three players are on option to the International League team.

The disbanding of the team was ordered by Hugh Caldwell, president of the Seattle club, yesterday, as a climax to a dispute between him and Robert Patrick, president of the Coast Hockey League.

HILLCREST HAPPENINGS

The Hillcrest high school baseball team was defeated by the Bellevue team here on Monday, with a score of 17-8.

A successful whist drive was held in the Catholic hall on Monday evening under the auspices of the Welsh Society. After cards, supper was served and dancing continued till midnight. The door prize was won by Mrs. Fred Gregory; the ladies' first by Mrs. J. Mackie, second by Mrs. J. Watson; gents' first by Fred Gregory, second by Donald Grant.

Miss Hilda Ross left on Monday for Lethbridge, where she has taken up a position.

At the bridge drive, held in the Community hall last Wednesday night, the prizes were won by: ladies' first, Miss E. Welsh; gents' first, Mr. Dougherty.

The many friends of Mrs. William Hutchison will be pleased to know that she has recovered from her recent illness, but has decided to reside permanently at Vancouver. This will certainly be a loss to Hillcrest, as Mrs. Hutchison was very popular with everyone.

The Diamond Brothers are making preparations to open a butcher shop here shortly.

The rally-day service was held in the United church on Sunday afternoon. Several of the Sunday school pupils gave short readings and a violin trio was played by Misses Jean Cruickshank and Katherine Ross and Mr. W. H. Moser.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Bamforth left Hillcrest on Saturday for their home in Saskatchewan.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hunter, of Lethbridge, are spending their holidays here with Mrs. T. Hale.

The Altermatt orchestra has been engaged for the I.O.E. dance, to be held in the local opera house on the night of Wednesday, November 11th.

Dysentery Is a Very Dangerous Bowel Complaint

Mrs. E. M. Ward, 637 Ave. E. South, Saskatoon, Sask., writes: "When my husband was in France he took dysentery, and was in hospital over a year. Ever since he came back he has had it four times a year. I cannot emphasize the good Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry has done for him. He generally takes a few doses and gets relief in a few hours."

"I cannot speak too highly of your excellent remedy, and you may be sure we are never without a bottle of it in the house."

The Western Spirit

Are the people of Western Canada losing, or in danger of losing, that fine pioneer spirit which enabled them in the past to tighten their belts and hang on through times of stress and hardship, and that optimism which, looking to the future, could distinguish the silver lining to the cloud which presently loomed above them? Are the people of this generation losing, or have they lost, this spirit and outlook on life which carried their forefathers into the forests of old Ontario and Quebec to hew out homes, and which inspired the men and women of a generation ago to trek to the vast prairies of the West, build little shacks and break the virgin soil with a crude plow drawn by oxen?

These questions suggest themselves when we hear of the way in which a considerable number of people are reacting to the existing difficulties confronting them during this period of world-wide depression. Unquestionably many men and women are facing their problems just as courageously as ever, but there does appear to be an increasingly large number who are inclined to throw up their hands and rest content to become objects of charity and governmental assistance. There seems to be a tendency on the part of many to depend solely upon relief supplied by others rather than make a real struggle to provide their own relief from existing difficulties.

Government assistance in times of national emergency, as the Prime Minister of Canada has described the present situation, is necessary. So, too, is assistance that can be provided by churches, charitable organizations and individuals. Some families must have such assistance, and because the need has been created through no fault of their own, they are fully deserving of it. But there are many who can get along without it, or at least with a very minimum of such assistance, but who, because of the organization of relief measures on a large scale, are adopting the attitude that they might just as well get a large share, a full share, of what is going on.

In cities and towns cases are constantly cropping up of people who could get along without help but who, lacking pride or even common honesty, have enrolled themselves on relief lists. The writer has even heard of farmers who, having a small crop, neglected to harvest it, they argued, they could get more government relief if they had nothing than would be the case if they had even a little of their own.

After all, times like the present call for self-denial, self-sacrifice, courageous effort to make the best of things and get along with as little as possible. Before the Great War people were asking questions somewhat similar to those appearing at the beginning of this article. Had the human race deteriorated? The stamina of the race was demonstrated in the fiery furnace of war, not only by men in the trenches, but by the munition worker, the producers of food, transportation workers, and the great mass of people everywhere and in all walks of life. Practically everybody was willing to assume their share of the burden and make their sacrifice, large or small.

A revival of the same spirit is necessary now. True, there were profiteers, and grafters, and slackers, during the war, but they were regarded with loathing and contempt then, and still are. We want none of them now. What Western Canada needs today in order to successfully tide over the existing depression, and to save the country from the country as a whole. Lying down, letting "George do it," trying to get something for nothing, grumbling and fault-finding will not better the situation one whit. It will only make matters worse.

Let us as a people, individually and collectively, stand upright on our own feet and fight our way through. Where there's a will, there's a way. It can be done. It must be done, or we are but creating greater problems and piling up still larger difficulties for the future.

Ten Years Of Seed Collecting

British Columbia Has Produced Over Twenty Tons Of Various Species

The establishment for the extraction of forest tree seed which has been maintained at New Westminster, British Columbia, by the Forest Service of the Department of the Interior, has now completed ten years of service, and in that time has produced 40,940 pounds (practically twenty and a half tons) of seeds of forest trees of various species. Virtually all of this has been sent to the Forestry Commission of Great Britain and the state forest services of New Zealand and Australia. The chief species whose seed has been secured are Sitka (or silver), spruce, western yellow (ponderosa) pine, and Douglas fir.

Alfalfa Good For Humans

Hey! Hey! It's good for you, Alfalfa, the cow's delight, is billy for humans, according to Dr. E. V. McCollum, of James H. H. University. The cattle food, he told a health institute called by the Milk Council of Greater Chicago, is crammed full of vitamins and is palatable in salad form. As a substitute, however, for those who do not like Dr. McCollum suggested that they drink milk only from cows fed on alfalfa.

Gandhi May Visit America

Indian Leader Willing If He Would Not Be Made Ridiculous

Mahatma Gandhi is willing to go to the United States at the conclusion of the round table conference if his friends can convince John Haynes Holmes, New York pastor, that the Mahatma would not be made a laughing stock.

"Holmes tells me my visit would be misunderstood, that I would be exploited, ridiculed and misinterpreted," Gandhi said.

"If others who have invited me can convince Holmes I ought to go to America, I shall be glad to reconsider my decision."

"Einstein said his visit was the greatest mistake of his life because most Americans regarded him only as a spectacle. I'm not so sensitive as Einstein, but I ought not to go to America unless the American people are willing to listen to my message rather than regard me as a curiosity."

Coal Imports

Increase Shown In Importation Of Welsh and Scotch Hard Coal Anthracite coal from the British Isles, imported to Canada through the port of Montreal this season had reached a total of 550,000 tons to the end of September. The figure was 9,373 tons higher than in 1930 to the same date.

Overseas coal and coke receipts for this season are lower than last year by 105,000 tons, due to the embargo on the importation of Russian anthracite. The increase in Welsh and Scotch hard coal has not made up the difference. Last year 148,000 tons of Soviet anthracite was landed here.

MOURNING WARDROBE

"A death occurred in our family and I had to go in mourning. I could hardly afford to buy all black clothes, so decided to dye what I had. I consulted our druggist and he advised using Diamond Dyes. Everything came out beautifully. Coats, wool dresses, stockings and I have since learned to appreciate the excellence of the black Diamond Dyes. I tried another black dye and the results were impossible. I had to get Diamond Dyes and do the work over. Recently I have tinted my beautiful raspberry hair and dyed a rug a lovely garnet with Diamond Dyes. They are real money savers. You can dye money, buy—I truly believe."

New Advertising Idea

As Carried Out By Grocer In Denver, Colorado

The idea is a precisely new but its application is, as far as we know, A. Denver, Colorado, grocer, cutting a baseball in two, pasted one half on the outside of his shop window and the other half just opposite on the inside. That made the ball look as if it had been driven partly through the glass. A few streaks of black paint, artistically grouped like cracks. Nearby, a placard labeled "A Big Hit!" carried a list of bargains the store was offering.

Creates an elusive, essentially feminine charm. Persian Halm is indispensable to women of refinement.

Commercial Canning

Fruits and Vegetables Are Canned Under Strict Government Supervision

Commercially canned products, either fruits or vegetables, have an advantage from the technical standpoint of being canned at perfect maturity and within a few hours of harvesting. At one time the canning of fruits and vegetables was all done entirely done in the home; today the modern housewife gets her winter supply of fruits from the products of the up-to-date canning factory.

The pure food laws of Canada provide that canned fruits and vegetables must be sound products made from sterilized, clean, sound, properly matured and prepared fresh fruits or vegetables by means of heat and kept in suitable, clean containers closed automatically or otherwise, and marked as to conform in name to the particular fruits or vegetables used in their preparation. No adulterated preservatives, artificial coloring may be used in commercially canned fruits or vegetables. They may contain only pure water, sugar and salt as preservatives.

The canned products manufactured under the Canadian Food Inspection Act are under strict supervision of the commercial canning inspection service of the Dominion fruit branch. Under this service four grades for quality are provided, and these are respectively: Fancy, choice, standard and second. The terms used to describe each grade indicate clearly and concisely the nature and character of the product which qualifies for the grade.

An Oil Of Merit.—Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil is not a jumble of medicinal substances thrown together and pushed by advertising, but the result of the careful investigation of the healing qualities of certain oils as applied to the human body. It is a rare combination and it won and kept public favor from the first. A trial of it will carry conviction to any who doubt its power to repair and heal.

No One Escapes Tax

Germany Goes About Collection In Very Thorough Way

The thoroughness with which the German tax of 15 is collected is illustrated by the following incident that occurred at Mannheim Aerodrome:—The Geneva correspondent of the Irish Independent, Dublin.

A German citizen—a woman—was a passenger by air from Holland directed to Paris. She had been staying at Amsterdam, and was proceeding right through to Basel. Unfortunately, however, she alighted for a few moments at Mannheim, in Germany, and because she had stepped on German soil she was relieved, leaving her protests, of 100 marks for deserting Germany."

Trade Opportunities

Good Market In France For Canadian Horses and Cattle

With a little adjusting of conditions here and there, there is every reason why Canada might export horses and cattle to France. The country is usually to France, and should also secure a larger share in France's cattle industry, in the opinion of Michael Sautel, of Paris, who deals with livestock in a large way and who has been spending several weeks in Canada as a purchaser.

Natural Resources Will Help Develop Churchill

Needs More Than Wheat, Asserts Kenneth K. McArdle

Wheat shipments alone could not make Churchill a real port, in the opinion of Kenneth K. McArdle, managing editor of the Commerce of the Nation, organ of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, which last month conducted a tour to the new Hudson's Bay ocean port.

But on the other hand there are vast mineral resources north of The Pas to mile 250, including large marble deposits and limitless water power and I believe that Churchill will definitely come out through the development of the natural resources which lie to the south. Leaders in the western cities are not now so enthusiastic on the Churchill scheme as they once were, but they have interested others who are confidently on the defensive in the support of their undertaking and through their work and interest the dream of the west may come true."

He was addressing the Advertising Club of Montreal.

Irish and Belgian Parties Get Splendid Specimens In B.C.

A number of hunting parties have returned to Telegraph Creek, B.C., bringing with them the greatest collection of big game trophies ever obtained in the district.

Major James Workman, of Belfast, Ireland, secured, in a newly-discovered range district, stone sheep with horns 45 inches long, believed to be the longest ever secured. Members of the Pierre Solvay party, of Brussels, Belgium, secured several splendid specimens of rams, some of record size.

The Swedish film industry, of Stockholm, had an expedition in the district all summer filming big game, and returned with 16,000 feet of film depicting all species of northern British Columbia big game in their natural habitat.

Declares Italy Will Consider Any Disarmament Proposal

Benito Mussolini, Foreign Minister, speaking at a meeting of the Rome Rotary Club where Viscount Cecil of Chelwood also spoke, reiterated what he described as Italy's willingness to consider "any proposal, method or system" likely to lead to reduction of armaments.

He agreed with Viscount Cecil that "fear and unrest" are the cause of the world's present trouble, and that the real remedy is disarmament.

Grandi said the proposal for an armaments truce which he made at Geneva, was only the first step, but he expressed confidence that "its general significance" would contribute toward a revival of international confidence.

Airways Pilot Almost Equals Hawk's Record

Files From Edmonton To Calgary In Forty-Four Minutes

Clipping off just over four and a half miles a minute, Pilot Paul Calder, of Canadian Airways, came within an ace of equalling the record set by Captain Frank Hawks, for flying from Edmonton to Calgary.

Piloting a Fieseler mail plane, Calder travelled the 196 miles from Edmonton to the southern city in 44 minutes, Hawks, the famous American speed pilot, made the distance in 45 minutes, with an international air tour flight in September last year. He was flying his famous super-speed monoplane.

Would Trade Coal For Wheat

The newspaper Tageblatt says negotiations were underway for the barter of half a million tons of Ruhr coal for a quantity of Brazilian coffee in a manner similar to that in which Brazil recently traded coffee for wheat from the United States. The Tageblatt suggests that negotiations might be extended to include a trade of coal for Canadian wheat.

Buried Gold

The United States, it appears has $5,000,000,000 in gold, almost half the world's entire supply, locked up in its vaults where much of it is doing just about as much good as the untold wealth in gold that still lies deep in the earth.—Christian Science Monitor.

Future For Gold Mining

Says Gold Will Be In Demand As Long As Time Lasts

While other metals may be subject to price variations, gold will be in demand "as long as time lasts," said Hon. Charles McCrear, Ontario Minister of Mines, in addressing the Thunder Bay Chamber of Commerce at Fort William recently. He said he expected Ontario's gold production this year to value $42,000,000.

Speaking of the northwestern portion of the province, the Minister said that there could be no mineral industry without mines, and he was glad to note that this section was getting mines, such as the Moss, the Howey and the properties now under development by the Congra and the Homestead. With these as a foundation and the co-operation of the government, he believed that this section would recover the reputation it gained in the '80s and '90s.

Many Unnecessary Risks Taken In Order To Gain Publicity

Now the Williams' submarine has got all the newspaper publicity possible by diving under the Arctic ice and is recommended for the junk heap by one of its Norwegian passengers, we dare to entertain the hope that death of newspaper publicity will presently curtail the antics of trans-oceanic and "round-the-world" fliers. LEAGUE ACTS TO AVERT CONFLICT IN THE ORIENT

Geneva.—The Council of the League of Nations overruled Japanese opposition by voting 13 to 1 to invite the United States to participate in the discussion of matters relating to peace between Japan and China in Manchuria. The council's action revived hope that the league would be able to bring about a pacific settlement of the Manchurian controversy.

"We are still loyal members of the league and have been from the first," Kenichiro Yoshizawa, Japan's spokesman, told questioners at the end of the long secret session at which the league maintained so persistently by him and the Tokyo Government was emphatically overruled. Aristide Briand, chairman of the council and French foreign minister, and his colleagues argued long and ardently with Mr. Yoshizawa.

The feeling that not only was in the far east but also the very life of the league was at stake had been growing, and each hour of delay increased fear on the part of league proponents that the institution might show weakness in a vital test. The result, therefore, was welcomed with gratification and relief in international circles which regarded the council's determination to overcome Japanese opposition as their eagerly desired token of vitality.

Persons present at the council's secret session reported the procedure was conducted in this manner:

Mr. Briand began by reading the form of invitation which already had been drafted. Mr. Yoshizawa read his written objections. The matter raised serious constitutional questions, the Japanese spokesman said. He contended it was much more than a question of procedure (on which only a majority council vote is required), but was indeed a question of substance (which requires unanimity).

Mr. Briand and Lord Reading, British foreign secretary, held no question of substance was involved. A long debate resulted between Mr. Yoshizawa on one side and all the other members except Dr. Alfred Eise, Chinese spokesman, on the other. Dr. Eise remained silent throughout.

British and French representatives declared Japan's position to be in violation of two treaties. The council was not deciding, they said, on something new, the Japanese and Chinese agreed three weeks ago to welcome co-operation on the part of the United States; so the council was merely inviting this co-operation on the spot.

The second point made by these spokesmen was that the council was not, as Japan contended, adding a non-leader to sit at its table, but was simply beckoning to a man already in the audience to come to that table.

At the end, Mr. Yoshizawa suggested that the council should appoint a committee of jurists to study the juridical aspects of the problem and report Friday, October 18. Asked if he were ready to abide by the jurists' recommendation, the Japanese representative replied he could not answer that question. A vote was taken on his proposal and only Gerhard von Mutius, German delegate, sided with him.

Mr. Briand declared a committee of jurists would only make the situation worse. A vote was then taken to the proposal to invite the United States. Mr. Briand asked those opposing it to raise their hands. No hand went up but after a moment Mr. Yoshizawa announced that he was in opposition.

Lower Insurance Rates

Hope To Obtain More Favourable Consideration For H.L. Evans
Ottawa, Ont.—The safe and expeditious voyage of the two freighters carrying steel grain shipments from Port Churchill on Hudson Bay to Europe, will strengthen materially the case of the Department of Marine in its efforts to secure more favourable insurance rates on vessels using Hudson Straits, Alex. Johnston, Deputy Minister of Marine, states. The efforts of the department to secure lower insurance rates will be resumed in the near future.

In summing up his report to the department, following the docking of his vessel in London on October 4, Captain W. Monro of the "Farnworth," said: "To sum up the position, and judging by the conditions prevailing this year, a vessel proceeding there (Port Churchill), in the proper season, fitted with a gyro compass, a direction indicator, and well ballasted, will experience no more difficulty in making a passage than she would in passing through Belle Isle."

Captain Monro reported very little ice sighted on the passage in and out of the straits. The only difficulty encountered by Captain Monro was compass trouble when in certain sections of the straits, due to the proximity of the magnetic pole. At these points the compass would become sluggish and practically useless, he reported. This difficulty, however, could be easily surmounted, he said, with a gyro compass.

Port facilities at Churchill were adequate and with dredging completed, Captain Monro believed that next year three or four vessels could load at the same time, efficiently.

Premier Bennett Honored

McGill University Confers Degree Of Doctor Of Laws

Montreal, Que.—Intermingling pomp and dignity with a colourful display of warmth of welcome, McGill University conferred upon Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett the degree of doctor of laws. And then as a climax the large audience attending the special convocation marking the opening of a three weeks' reunion, heard the Prime Minister in an address permeated with confidence in Canada.

"Let us be confident," Premier Bennett declared after remarking that the world's situation might not be over but Canada's would be over, the sooner Canadians marched fearlessly to meet them. "Let us be bold and put to shame those who in their assumed wisdom forecast impending trouble and in the greed that springs from fear prefer themselves and their own interests and exploitations to the welfare of Canada as a whole."

Reduced Rail Fares

Teachers and Students To Obtain Special Rates For Holiday

Montreal, Que.—Reduced railway fares for teachers and students at schools and colleges far from home will be put in effect for Christmas, New Year and Easter holidays by the railways of Canada. It was announced here by the Canadian Passenger Association.

The trip fares will be reduced to one and a quarter times the single fare; it was announced. Dates of the sale of such tickets will be governed by holiday dates of the various schools and colleges throughout the country.

A certificate signed by the director or headmaster of the school or college will be necessary to secure the reduced fare.

Excess Freight Rates

Government Will Not Be Called Upon To Pay For Churchill Shipments

Ottawa, Ont.—The Dominion Government will not be called upon to absorb any excess freight charges for the handling of the two cargoes of wheat through Churchill this fall, it was announced by Hon. R. J. Manion, Minister of Railways and Canals.

The Dominion agreed to handle the test-shipment for the Canadian Co-operative Wheat Producers on the basis of the Port William and Montreal freight rates. If the cost of the shipments had been higher than this rate, the Dominion did not levy earlier fees at Churchill.

Season's Work Finished

Ottawa, Ont.—The season's operations of Department of Marine vessels in the Hudson Straits area have been brought to a close and the ice-breaker N. B. McLean has left the straits to take up winter service in the St. Lawrence River. The "Arcadia," carrying the Dominion Government hydrographic survey party, has also sailed for home.

Alberta Has Deficit

Operating Deficit Of $2,306,581 Shown For Last Fiscal Year

Edmonton, Alberta.—An operating deficit of $2,306,581 for the fiscal year ending March 31 last, was announced by the Alberta Government. A summary of the provincial current accounts was given out by Premier Brownlee, showing the results of the government's financial operations for the year. It was pointed out by the premier that it is the first time in a number of years that such a deficit has been reported.

From 1925 to 1930 inclusive the province showed a surplus of revenue over expenditure of $2,491,386, but that the surplus would for this last year be turned into a deficit, long since been a foregone conclusion.

In accounting for the deficit, Premier Brownlee states that two or three items alone, involving approximately $600,000, must be considered as special expenditures not ordinarily looked for in the expenditure of one year. These were: The provincial election of 1930, $160,000; freight charges on seed and relief to drought area, $97,000; and extra grants to schools, $387,000.

THINKS POUND STERLING WILL CONTINUE LOW

Quebec, Que.—The pound sterling had been "pegged" at too high a rate previously and he did not think Great Britain would ever return it to a par of $4.86, Lord Rothermere, British newspaper peer, stated in a brief interview here before sailing for home on the "Empress of Britain." "I don't think that Great Britain will ever return the sterling to a par of $4.86. She will come back to a gold standard in time, but the pound was pegged at too high a rate of exchange and was economically unsound," the publisher declared.

Lord Rothermere made a flying visit to Canada to hold conferences here with representatives of the newspaper industry in which he is financially interested.

The world depression would not be over for some time said in Great Britain it need not be expected to let up for another 12 or 18 months, he said.

In reply to a question, Lord Rothermere said he thought the recent decrease in unemployment insurance payments were "all to the good." Lord Rothermere expressed the opinion that the present low rate for the Canadian dollar would give Canada a fine chance to increase her export trade.

His next visit to Canada, probably before the end of the year, would possibly take him to British Columbia to inspect some property in which he was interested, Lord Rothermere said.

Using Unsinkable Boat

Lisbon.—Fritz Engler, a 30-year-old sailor, set sail October 14, for New York in a rubber boat which he claims is unsinkable. He expects to make the trip in 70 days via the Canary Islands and the Bahamas. The boat is fitted with two sails and pair of oars, and the deck can be hermetically sealed in rough weather.

Believes Canada Will Drop Gold Standard

But Not As Permanent Measure Says Dr. Swanson

Saskatoon, Sask.—Dr. W. W. Swanson, who accompanied Premier Bennett last year when he attended the Imperial Conference, is of the belief that it will not be long before Canada follows the example of Great Britain, and drops the gold standard.

Addressing the members of the Kiwanis Club here, on the subject of "Currency and International Finance," he stated that this step would not be permanent but that eventually the Dominion would return to the gold standard. He regarded financiers of the United States as only amateurs when compared with those who have controlled British finance, and declares that the pound sterling is far more concerned to Canada than is the United States dollar.

May Ask Legislation For Party Funds

Proposal Is Forecast For Next Session Of Parliament

Ottawa, Ont.—The Ottawa Citizen publishes the following: "A proposal for legislation at the next session of parliament on the subject of campaign funds is forecast as a prospective development. Whether it will emanate from a western Liberal or western Progressive is not certain, but someone, it is said to be agreed, will come forward with it. "From the Beauchamp inquiry the repercussions have been considerable and while legitimate election expenses call for contributions, the purpose is to develop a method of overcoming this secrecy."

Toronto, Ont.—Pastors under the jurisdiction of Toronto West Presbytery of the United Church of Canada, recently decided to donate a percentage of their salaries for relief work in Western Canada.

The decision was made at a meeting of the Presbytery held in New Toronto. Pastors with a salary of $3,000 a year will subscribe ten per cent. of their salary for a period of one year, while those on a salary of less than $3,000 a year will give ten per cent. of their salary for a period of six months.

President Of Spain Resigns

Trouble Came Over Measures Restricting Religious Orders

Madrid, Spain.—Niceto Alcalá Zamora, who has served as provisional president of Spain since the ousting of King Alfonso XIII, six months ago, has resigned with his cabinet and succeeded within a few hours by Manuel Azana, his minister of war.

The shift of government resulted from the measures restricting religious orders that have been inculcated by the assembly in the constitution under which republicans Spain will be governed, and it was accompanied by spectacular street demonstrations.

Bands of Communists and anti-clericals roamed the streets of Madrid singing the "Red Flag," and shouting "Down with the Catholic Church" and "Death to all Jesuits." Most intense excitement prevailed as a consequence of the bitter parliamentary fight over the status of the church and ecclesiastical organizations in the new-born republic.

Anti-Dumping Tariff Displeasing To Italy

News Paper States Canada's Action Regarding Imports Is Unfair

Rome, Italy.—Displeasure in Italy at the decision of the Canadian Government to apply anti-dumping tariff provisions against imports from countries whose currency has depreciated on foreign exchange markets was reflected in an editorial appearing in Giornale Di Italia.

It is unfair, the newspaper said, to apply anti-dumping provisions against Italian imports, as the lira still remains on the gold standard, and any oscillation in its rate of exchange will be of short duration.

Reinforcing its argument with statistics the newspaper said that during the last three years the value of Canadian goods imported by Italy had been greatly in excess of the value of Italian merchandise imported into Canada.

PAINTS VIVID PICTURE OF THE HORRORS OF WAR

Ottawa, Ont.—Painting a vivid picture of the horror and desolation which must inevitably result from another world war, Maurice Dupre, Solicitor-General for Canada, addressed students of the University of Ottawa on the problems of disarmament.

The forthcoming disarmament conference at Geneva, in February, 1932, will represent the first attempt yet made to bring about a general limitation or reduction of armaments based on common agreement, Mr. Dupre told his audience. Mr. Dupre was speaking at the opening of the lecture series in the University of Ottawa for the academic year 1931-32.

The post-war disarmament movement is based on the agreement, Mr. Dupre said. "Its roots lie in the horror and futility of the last war; that war in which 10,000,000 men were killed and 10,000,000 missing; where the dead alone amounted to 16,586; where the parade of dead, marching 10 abreast from sunrise to sunset, would take 46 days to pass by a given spot."

Since the war the feeling had been that not only did armaments fail to prevent war, but that they actually encouraged war. They not only failed to give security, but they prejudiced security. "Give a man a loaded gun, he will likely want to pull the trigger," said Mr. Dupre. "Give him one that is superior to that possessed by anyone else, and the temptation will be irresistible."

The disarmament movement had been steadily developing to culminate in the coming Geneva conference, the Solicitor-General continued. The conference was the result of 10 years' steady preparation by the League of Nations. The question of its success or failure was dependent on many factors.

Mr. Dupre outlined the difficulties as well as the factors making for the success of the coming conference. "First was the factor of armaments," he said. "Remove fear and you remove guns, bayonets, poison gases and other abominations; provide security, and you can turn swords into plowshares—but not before."

There were political difficulties to be surmounted, and also technical difficulties. The challenge of new and more dangerous forms of armament must be met. "He dealt with some of the possibilities presented by chemical discoveries, the effect of which would be to destroy life behind the actual fighting lines as well as in them."

LOYD GEORGE HEARD IN SPEECH OVER THE RADIO

London, Eng.—From his sick bed in the hills of Shorn, Surrey, Rt. Hon. Lloyd George, Liberal leader, broadcast his views in connection with Great Britain's general election campaign.

It was for him a novel experience. In every general election for the past 41 years he has taken an active part. Now, "out of the turmoil," to use his own expression, he campaigned by microphone. But he left no doubt in the minds of his hearers where he stood.

"This is no time for vague or hesitating talk," he exclaimed, and without hesitation he condemned the policy of protection. The danger of Socialism was remote, he asserted. But protection was an impending peril.

In the choice between "a food-taxing Tory and a Free Trade Labour" candidate, he said, he would have no hesitation in his vote to avert the calamity of protection.

"It is a mean suggestion," he said, "that masses of gallant workers who went through the horrors of the war for their country's sake are not truly national unless they are tarred and feathered to join the Tory rank and return protectionist members to the House of Commons to impose tolls on bread and meat."

Why should it be imagined, he questioned, that the tariffs would lift up the collapsed sovereign? Had tariffs prevented the German mark from dropping out of sight? he asked. In victorious France, the franc had depreciated to one-tenth of its pre-war value.

Tariff barriers constituted one of the main causes of the slump in world trade, he asserted. Despite tariffs, Germany was experiencing the worst trade depression it has ever known. "The German chancellor predicted that in the coming winter the army of workless may reach the appalling figure of 7,000,000," he said. "In despair the workers are thronging to the Communist Party."

The United States ought to be a paradise of protectionists, Mr. Lloyd George said. Its tariffs are scientifically adjusted, he asserted. Yet on the British basis of computation its unemployed total over 10,000,000. "Financially, the spectre of bankruptcy is stalking through the streets of this great country whose streets seemed two years ago to be paved with gold."

The federal budget shows a deficit of £300,000,000, he said. Banks are passing into the hands of the receivers. The value of 100 German marks have already crashed, and many more are tottering on the verge of collapse. Exports last August had fallen 62 per cent. compared with those of August, 1929.

Tariffs, Mr. Lloyd George argued, could not help a great international trader such as Great Britain.

Ship Gold To Europe

France and U.S. Control Three-fifths Of World's Supply

New York.—The torrent of monetary gold which has been flowing from New York into the coffers of Europe was swelled recently by $47,762,400.

This brings the total net loss of gold to approximately $568,000,000 since September 1, most of which was taken in the last four months, or since the suspension of the gold standard in Great Britain.

While latest official figures are several days old, it is now estimated in Wall Street that the monetary gold stock in this country is close to $4,500,000,000, and that France's has increased to nearly $2,500,000,000. The two countries control roughly three-fifths of the world's entire supply.

Few Remain At Churchill

Northern Port Ready To Spend Last Lonely Winter

Churchill, Man.—This northern port is preparing to spend its last lonely winter. Only a few hundred of the thousands of men who rushed work here to completion this summer remain now, and inside of two weeks only the residents and few winterers will remain to guard the buildings here.

All boats have been taken from the harbour and made ready for winter storage. The port will be thrown open next spring to the public.

WHY UNION GOVERNMENT

In reply to a suggestion by Mr. W. M. Davidson, of Calgary, that a union government be formed in this province to tide over the crisis, Premier Brownlee asked the other day why people urged a coalition directly but times arrive and desire party government during prosperous or normal times. He said: "If formation of non-partisan governments is necessary in the hour of danger or great difficulty, why are party governments necessary at any time?"

This is a question that is often asked. The answer is quite definite. The primary purpose of party government is that the various groups in a community shall have adequate parliamentary representation. It is supposed to be the only means of achieving democracy. And, although the function of a parliament is to guard the interests of the whole community, it is also its function to see that the wishes of the majority within that community are given preference over the wishes of minorities. But there are some times, such as during the Great War and (many believe) at the present when the interests of the various groups in a community must be sacrificed in the interests of the community as a whole. That is the time for non-partisan coalition government. Directly it becomes apparent that the existence, or at any rate well-being, of the community is in danger, the necessity for unified action becomes equally apparent.

Premier Brownlee stated also: "Arising out of these suggestions is a curious question which our people might well consider, namely, that if the abolition of party lines and the formation of non-partisan governments is necessary in days of danger, why have party governments at all?"

"Notwithstanding what any one in division might say, the predominant school of thought in Canada, as elsewhere, seems to be that the party form of government is necessary."

The second question raised by the premier is largely academic. There is little likelihood of any violent change in the democratic form of government in existence in Canada, at any rate for an indefinite period. Yet the efficacy of party government is strongly questioned today. Government itself has become more of an exact science than it was hitherto, because economic questions have increased so tremendously in number and importance. The demagogue can still win an election—for it is an unfortunate but inescapable truth that majorities are largely irrational—but the demagogue can no longer get by when he is in office. In brief, communities today must be guided by experts, and experts are usually incapable of winning elections.

Russia's strength, such as it is, is vested largely in this very question. Stalin, fearing that the five-year plan may fail, has removed incompetents from executive positions with a speed only possible in an absolute autocracy, and has replaced them by experts. The same thing can only be brought about in a democracy by luck and laborious endeavor.

Russia's weakness, of course, is that there is no guarantee that the autocrats at its head will remain either intelligent or benevolent (assuming that they are). An infinitely better form of government than the democratic party system we know is absolute rule by an intelligent and benevolent autocracy. But there seems to be no means of obtaining a guarantee as to the permanence of either the intelligence or the benevolence. It is somewhat of a vicious circle.

—Calgary Albertan.

THE CRISIS—WAS THE LABOR GOVERNMENT RESPONSIBLE?

The unseen hand of finance destroyed the labor government. The political crisis arose because of a financial one, and the financial crisis arose because of a real economic crisis. If there was no unemployment there would have been no crisis. If there was no loss of overseas markets and an adverse trade balance, there would have been no crisis. If there had been no war and an almost equally bad "peace" settlement, there would have been no crisis.

These causes lie beneath all the other surface disturbances. The slump in sterling was due really to these deeper causes, though the muddled policies of the banks brought about the panic on the exchanges. The British government doesn't control the banks or the policies of the banks. The banks, especially the central banks, are a law unto themselves.

To get out of a tight corner in which they had found themselves, the banks had to find help. This help was given—on terms! These terms, stipulations about the conduct of the affairs—not of the banks which had got into a mess, but of the government that had to stand by as guarantee for the banks! In this case the terms were dictated by the American banks. The cut in the "dole" to bring about in its train a general reduction in wages was demanded. The naked and ruthless purpose of this attack on the workers' standards of life, revealed itself to the majority of the labor cabinet, and they resigned. They refused to lend themselves to a plan to reduce wages and salaries as well as drastic and unnecessary cuts in the unemployed person's meagre maintenance. The rift stands out in all its clearness. It was not the labor government that was responsible for the money crisis. The "dole" and the amount of the unemployed man's benefit had nothing to do with it. The budget deficit and really nothing to do with it.

Was the labor government responsible for the financial crashes in New York? For the hasty crash which cut the old currency $19,000,000 ($95,000,000) or less as $26,000,000 ($120,000,000) was lost in the spinning trade. Was the labor government responsible for the serious difficulties of the great German and Austrian banks, that America and France are holding two thirds of the world's gold.

The real crisis is that people have not the means to buy things. It may sound strange but the people have to provide credit to consume the goods that have received credit in order to be produced. The purchasing power of the masses must be increased if prosperity is to be restored. The only difference between the prime minister, the chancellor of the exchequer and Mr. J. H. Thomas and the labor party is a financial one, and when this is settled, will the parties return as previously constituted to what they were before? For the answer we have to look for future developments. In other words wait and see.

MAN'S RESPONSIBILITY

Premier Bennett in a recent address is reported to have stated that nothing but the grace of God could get Canada out of her difficulties. At a time when starvation and want are stalking the earth in the midst of plenty, it seems to us that the failure is man's. Man has been richly endowed and given every opportunity to distribute the good things of life equitably and so promote the highest well-being of his kind. The evils of the present world situation are man-made.—The U.F.A.

IGNORANCE COSTLY

How often the person who tries to be helpful deals himself only grief, and how often a newspaper trying to pass on some necessary bit of news, digs itself a pit to fall into.

The Chilliwack Progress is just rising to its feet after a terrible tumble. In consideration of all the sportsmen in the vicinity, it undertook to pass on some new game regulations quoted from a daily, which, it supposed had had direct contact with the game department. Our information was wetter than any game warden, tramping the bush trails all day in a driving rain, and the game commissioner threatening us with a lot of things not nice.

"It all comes because we voluntarily tried to assist a very important government department and a large number of readers. The department seems to take it for granted that the press and public should know all it knows without even being told."

"The number of annual infractions and fines indicated a lack of knowledge on the part of sportsmen, and on these occasions the press is frequently asked to publish reports of infractions as a warning to the informed. Something like looking through the door after the house is stolen."

"A more reasonable course would be to publish new regulations in the newspapers, by the authority of the attorney general's department."

The same thing is true of this and all other provinces. There are many new amendments and orders in council that the general public does not know. The first intimation is an arrest, or if the law enforcers be human, a warning. One instance of this was the order-in-council prohibiting the lighting of fires west of the C.P.R. right-of-way. After it became law—and a good law—farmers still went ahead in blind ignorance firing straw stacks. After they committed the offense they learned it was an offense. There are numerous such enactments, all for the purpose of safeguarding the people, which often fail in their full purpose because the public is not sufficiently informed. This follows a bill of costs.

As the Chilliwack Progress suggests, all such regulations should be widely published through the country papers, under the authority of the attorney-general. Then the public gets a fairer break.—E.S.

Mrs. William White, of Nanton, will succeed the late Mrs. Louise C. McKinney, as president of the Alberta Women's Christian Temperance Union.

An exchange remarks: Let's wife looked back and turned into a pillar of salt, and nowadays lots of wives do the same thing and turn into a ditch.

An Alberta newspaper carries an article headed: "Will hang at Edmonton." Reading the article, we were surprised to find it referred to the late Mrs. Louise McKinney's portrait.

John Lund, a pioneer of The Pass, died at Bellevue last week. He is survived by three children, Bessie at Vancouver and a son and daughter at Bellevue.

Thumb Sketches By C. H. Up-to-date

IT'S great, and commendable to be up-to-date, even up-to-the-minute, in the things that we think that we want, that we do—mostly, but not always. There are exceptions to most statements such as this and there are a lot of exceptions to this one.

Science of course during the last decade or so has been making wonderful strides. Society has been the beneficiary. Society continues to profit by the research of the laboratory and movements are constantly on foot to spread abroad to all the ends of the earth the benefits thus attained.

Medical men, sanitary engineers, manufacturers, technical and practical men of all kinds plan national and international gatherings for the purpose of pooling the results of their discoveries and giving to the world the best they have to offer.

The tiller of the "top six inches" is abreast of the rest. He, too, has planned a great world-wide conference upon the problems of field crop production—a sort of pooling of the beneficial results of research in the field of providing food and fodder for the world's millions—the World's Grain Exhibition and Conference to be held at Regina in 1932—the first great world-wide exhibition and conference ever held at any time in the interest exclusively of grain and feed. While being up-to-date along these lines—and many others—is surely commendable it is a bit doubtful at least if the stamp of similar commendation should be placed upon some others.

"We are adopting a more sensible attitude towards love," says a modern writer. "We have learned to stem sentiment, to treat romance with common sense, to be normal about emotion."

Just so, but has not ultra-modernism lost much of its hold upon something of infinitely greater value? Are not the kisses of too many girls too cheap—too shoddily cheap. Are not necking and inane love making taking up too much of the evening programme? Does not modern familiarity with the person bred contempt? Are we not losing the delicate charm and courtliness of other days? Isn't the "15" element of human nature so constantly before us as to become common—common in its original sense? Are we not, in sentiment and romance, paying too much attention to the things that are transitory and selfish? Is there not much solid opinion to say "yes" to these and a lot of other questions of life nature? If the ultra-modern really understood sentiment, romance and emotion better and rid these of a great deal of the up-to-date there would not be so many broken engagements, so many hurtful flirtations, so many tragic marriages and so many disastrous divorces—a dust heap and refuse dump that soils and stench the whole fabric of modern society.

WEIGHTS AND MEASURES

Do you know what it is to wish you were dead?

Have you tested the weight of a heart that is lead?

Did you try the burden that bends shoulders low?

Do you—Have you—Did you though?

Do you know the taste of the cups, bitter dregs?

Have you travelled the road with the weariest legs?

Did you recall it, hard, steep, without bend?

Do you—Have you—Did you though?

Do you know the blackness of hell's darkest night?

Have you suffered the pain, the agony, fright?

Did you writhe in sheer terror, or searing despair?

Do you—Have you—Did you though?

Then too! Do you know the joy of hands outstretched to you?

Have you sampled the gift of friendship, real, true?

Did you ever rejoice with your loved ones around?

Do you—Have you—Did you though?

Do you balance them now, first sorrow, then pain?

Have you counted your blessings, each joy, every gain?

Did you find in God's judgment an uneven flow?

Do you—Have you—Did you though?

Do you now, ere we part, let all aver? That the darkest night, the pain tho' it severs,

The dearest way, and the stiffest fall, Are worth battling thru life's sweet after all. Sylvia Crosby.

Contributed Huge Sum
To Assist Employment

C.P.R. Spent more than $11,000,000 on new Branch Lines and station buildings and provided 351,000 days work for men otherwise unemployed. Co-operated by doing work years ahead.

Mr. E. W. Beatty
Canadian Pacific Ry.

Since the commencement of the existing economic situation the Canadian Pacific Railway has spent a matter of eleven to twelve million dollars in providing work for unemployed Canadians. When it was apparent in the late summer of 1930, that certain areas of southern Saskatchewan were to suffer from almost complete crop failure, the Company took upon itself to assist the people in that territory by beginning the construction of a branch line between Vaseau and Mayronne. This line has been made at a time when the Company's revenues are suffering severely as a result of business depression. The programme of work, undertaken in order to cooperate with the Government, had given 30,000 days work to individuals otherwise unemployed up to August 31st last, and at September 14th it was estimated that approximately 100,000 more working days would be furnished before the work was completed. Although the Company has succeeded in making substantial reductions in operating costs, it has hesitated to pursue its policy of economy to the limit of regard for the serious obligation which rests upon all corporations to give as much employment as possible. While protecting the interest of shareholders as far as is consistent with its duty to the country, the Canadian Pacific has been conservative in its application of measures which would increase the number of unemployed in Canada. Only recently, however, have very severe decreases in earnings, have they pared down their forces to the bare essentials necessary for operation.

parts of New Brunswick, have always taken a keen interest in politics and so in the days of his early youth, the policies of governments always attracted him.

"Richard Bennett was completing his public school studies when his father died, but a legacy left to his mother enabled her to pay his way through the Fredericton normal school. He made the most of his opportunity and obtained a first class teaching certificate in one short year. School teaching, though, did not long hold his interest. The study of law attracted him and he was given the chance of studying law in the office of L. J. Tweedie.

"In 1899 young Bennett went to Dalhousie University and graduated from there with first class honors in the study of law, at the age of twenty-three. He then became the partner of L. J. Tweedie, the plate over the door reading, Tweedie and Bennett barristers at law.

"In 1897, Bennett heard the call to the west and Mr. Tweedie lost his ambitious partner, while Senator Loughheed, of Calgary, placed his trust in the serious minded young man who stepped off the train in the old C.P.R. station in Calgary thirty-four years ago.

"Senator Loughheed's trust was not misplaced, for day after day Bennett was the first to enter the office and the last to leave and soon became recognized as a lawyer of remarkable ability.

"Politics still interested him and in 1898 he was elected to the legislative assembly of the north-west territories.

"His next important nomination was for a seat in the Dominion House of Commons, and so here we close his early career, when he succeeded in gaining the seat in the House of Commons, which ultimately led to his nomination as leader of the opposition and finally as premier of our great dominion.

"Like other great men before him, he attributes his success to his mother, and in a letter to her from his seat in the House of Commons he wrote: 'All I am, all I ever expect to be, I owe to you, mother.'

— Dad Missed It —

Mother (to little Neddie, who had just returned from his first hunting trip with daddy): "Hello, Sonny, did you and daddy have any luck?"

Neddie: "Oh, yes, daddy shot a rabbit."

Mother: "And who carried it home?"

Neddie: "Nobody, it runned."

CORBIN HAPPENINGS

Mrs. A. Sheppard's sister, Mrs. Ralph Pratt, accompanied by her husband and two children, had the misfortune of having their car catch fire and burn up on the main highway at McMillan on Tuesday last. They were on a motor vacation and on their way to Corbin to visit Mr. and Mrs. Sheppard. A few personal possessions were rescued from the blazing car before Mr. and Mrs. Pratt were forced to abandon it.

The regular monthly meeting of the Ladies' Aid was held at the home of Mrs. A. Sheppard on Wednesday evening last.

Victor Gregor, accompanied by his wife and two children, left the early part of the week for Russia, where Mr. Gregor has secured a position as an electrician with the Russian government.

Mr. and Mrs. Isador Montalbett and son have just returned to Corbin, after spending a three-month's holiday in Italy, visiting relatives.

A dance, sponsored by the Corbin Community Club, was held in the club hall on Friday night last.

Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Shaw and daughter Joan returned home by motor from Calgary on Sunday.

The first of the series of bridge parties to be given by the Rebekah lodge in the lodge hall is to be on Thursday, October 29th. The ladies have changed the time of their social gatherings this year, finding it more convenient to meet in the evening, instead of the afternoon, as done last winter.

Mrs. Walter Sykes returned home from Cranbrook early this week, to which point she had been called on account of the illness of her grandmother.

GOVERNMENT EMPLOYEES' SALARY CUT TO AID PROVINCE

EDMONTON, Oct. 17.—(Alberta)

civil servants will co-operate in assisting the province to meet its present financial difficulties through voluntary salary reductions on a graduated scale, Premier J. E. Brownlee stated Friday night.

This statement came from the premier when he was asked to amplify his reference to a close analysis of the whole financial situation of the province by the government and a group of civil servants.

This body comprising the civil servants provincial executive, together with government representatives, is making study of all angles incidental to the present financial situation, Mr. Brownlee said.

The scale of contributions will be of the same effect as reductions in salary and will be turned over to augment the provincial unemployment relief fund, the premier stated. The survey of the group is a continuous study and its reports are made to the government from time to time.

How soon its recommendations will be adopted and made operative by the government, the premier was not prepared to state.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT

Here's one for Ripley. The head of a large accessory concern in Chicago vouches for the fact that, unbelievable as it may seem, people drive up to some of the breadlines in the Chicago area in their own automobiles. He asserts that in a town adjoining his own there is a breadline of 5,000 and it is not uncommon for men and women to drive up, park their cars, and take their places in line to wait for food. It is unquestioned that the automobile is about the last thing people are willing to relinquish when adversity comes, but the difficulty of obtaining gas and oil would seem to be as great as that of obtaining food. However, it has often been asserted by unemployment officials that a car is one of the greatest helps in finding jobs.

An exchange remarks: Wouldn't it be a joke on Uncle Sam, after piling up all that gold, if other folks decided they weren't going to bother about gold any more and let him have it.

CAR FOR EVERY
EIGHT CANADIANS

Ottawa has been doing some calculating, and the statisticians have come to the conclusion that if every automobile in Canada would hold eight people then everybody in the Dominion could ride at once. In other words, there were, 1,239,882 motor vehicles registered at the end of last year, or one for every 8 persons, as compared with one for every 8.2 persons the year previous. Ontario led registrations with 561,669 cars, and also led in the per capita column with one for every 5.9 persons in the province. Ontario may have the cars, but Saskatchewan has the roads. The Ottawa officials discovered that there were 394,732 miles of highway open for traffic in the Dominion, and that Saskatchewan led with 154,850 miles. Alberta was next with 62,426, and Ontario was third with 62,270 miles.

It is thus very noticeable that the province with the greatest number of cars is far from having the greatest mileage of roads on which to use them, which circumstances prompted Hon. Leopold Maccabey, Minister of Highways for Ontario, to say in a recent address that the density of traffic in Ontario was becoming rather serious. He illustrated his point with the remark that if all the motor vehicles in average daily use in Ontario were placed end to end they would stretch a distance of 1100 miles.

Sam Scarlett, one of the instigators of the strike trouble at Estevan, Saskatchewan, has been arrested after hiding for several weeks. He is charged with inciting to riot, as a result of the September 29th clash between striking miners and police at Estevan. Scarlett was found on a farm.

Protest From Apple Growers In France

Ask Government Protection Against Canadian and U.S. Imports

An apple tariff, aimed at Canadian and United States products, will come before Parliament when it reconvenes in November. The North American products have flooded the French market, creeping even into Rouen, the heart of the Normandy apple region. Growers have asked Parliament to protect them. French state railway engineers have been at work teaching peasants how to grow better apples and how to pack them.

PUMPKIN PRESERVES

Remove the rind and seeds from a small pumpkin and cut the flesh in inch cubes. Cook in a small amount of water until tender. Drain and weigh. For each pound of pumpkin allow 1 pound of sugar, 2 lemons and 2 ounces of ginger root. Slice the lemons and soak with the ginger over night in cold water. Next morning cook in same water until the lemon rind is tender. Add the sugar and the pumpkin, and simmer until the pumpkin is transparent. Drain and pack in jars. Cook syrup until it is thick and pour over the fruit in the jars. Seal tightly.

BEET RELISH

1 quart beets, diced.
1 medium-sized white onion.
2 red peppers.
2 teaspoons salt.
1/2 cup grated horse-radish.
1 pint vinegar.
1/2 cup sugar.
Cook the beets until they are tender and the skins slip off easily. Cut or chop the beets, onion, and peppers. Combine the ingredients. Cook the mixture until it is clear. Seal it in clean, hot jars.

Cattle Reach Paris

Is First Consignment—Canada Has Shipped To France

There recently arrived in Paris the first consignment of Canadian cattle ever shipped to France. The shipment consists of 172 head worth 50,000 francs. All were in excellent health and there was not a single casualty in the crossing.

This will be followed by a second consignment shortly. Moreover, French agents will shortly proceed to Canada to purchase lean beefers and steers to replace France's greatly depleted herds. France can assimilate regular weekly shipments of Canadian cattle for fattening.

Owing to veterinary regulations, Canada and Switzerland are the only two countries allowed to export cattle to France, and Switzerland has no exportable surplus.

Jurisdiction Extended

High Commissioner For Canada Now Controls All Departments

Jurisdiction over all departments of the Dominion Government in the United Kingdom will be exercised by Hon. C. Howard Ferguson, High Commissioner for Canada in Great Britain. An order-in-council passed when Hon. P. C. Larkin was High Commissioner, and which gave to Mr. Larkin additional jurisdiction, has been extended so as to apply to Mr. Ferguson. As things now stand the Canadian High Commissioner in London, England, will have supervision and control over officials of the Immigration, Trade and Commerce, Agriculture, and any other Government departments in the United Kingdom.

Windbreak Necessary

Plums, cherries, and the harder varieties of apples have been successfully grown on the Canadian prairies, but the orchards in all cases were protected by a suitable windbreak.

Illustrated Dressmaking Lesson Furnished With Every Pattern

Here's a lovely model in printed fat crepe, so smart and easy to wear. It's charmingly slender too.

The bodice cuts all in one until it joins the skirt flounce, which makes it especially simple for home seamstress.

Another idea for this easily made model, that will make it appear entirely different, is to make it sleeveless with the cape collar as shown in miniature view.

Dainty chiffon print, eylet batiste and pastel tub knit make up most attractively with the capelet collar. Then again for active sports, you can make it with the short sleeves without the capelet. Choose cotton mesh, poplin or linen.

Style No. 2922 may be had in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. Size 36 requires 3 1/2 yards of 39-inch material with 3/4 yard of 32-inch contrasting.

PAUL IN CORINTH

Golden Text: "Now abideth faith, hope, love, these three; and the greatest of these is love."—1 Corinthians 13:13.

Lesson: Acts 18:1-17; 1 Corinthians 13:1-8, 13.

Devotional Reading: 1 Corinthians 13:1-8, 13.

Explanations and Comments

Paul the Tentmaker, verses 1-3.—Last week we left Paul at Berea. From there he went to the province of Achaia, and following what must have been a very disappointing experience in Athens, came to Corinth.

Here at Corinth Paul's ministry lasted eighteen months. He worked at his trade of tentmaker by day and preached at night. Just what Paul's trade was is a matter of doubt. Lord translated the word "carpet manufacturer." Chrysostom describes Paul as standing in his workshop and stitching hides of leather together with his hands. It is generally thought that he made tentcloth from his hair of goats which was called Cilician cloth from the fact that it was made in Cilicia, which was Tarsus, Paul's native home.

Preaching to Jews and Greeks, verses 4, 5. In spite of many discouragements and of physical weakness (1 Corinthians 2:3-5), the lonely missionary "reasoned" in the synagogue every Sabbath, seeking to persuade Jews and Greeks to accept his teaching. The "Greeks" were proselytes in the synagogue, as the distinction of verse six shows.

The effect upon Paul of the coming of Silas and Timothy, who had remained in Macedonia, was electric; encouraged by their presence, his spirit revived and his whole activity became more intense. Paul was a social soul. He worked best in harness with others.

Turning to the Gentiles, verses 6, 7.—The Jews opposed Paul and his teaching. As Matthew Henry said, they could not argue against Paul's teaching, so they resorted to violence. Here's a lovely model in printed fat crepe, so smart and easy to wear. It's charmingly slender too.

Paul Encouraged, verses 8-11.—Despite his turning to the Gentiles, a noted Jew, Crispus, the ruler of the synagogue, and all his household believed Paul's message, and many other Corinthians believed and were baptized. Paul baptized Crispus with his own hands, 1 Corinthians 1:14.

Royal Winter Fair

Note Of Confidence In Canadian Agriculture Is Sounded

A welcome and refreshing tone of confidence in Canadian agricultural conditions is sounded in the announcement by the management of the Royal Winter Fair that "prospects for entries at the Royal in all departments were never better than at the present moment."

"Exhibitors in the western Provinces are most anxious to continue to display their live stock and other agricultural products," the Royal's statement goes on, "and the Dominion Government and the Provincial Governments, recognizing the advantages of the Provinces continuing to occupy a prominent position at the Royal are contributing their usual financial assistance in transportation and in the selection of the live stock and agricultural products."

"There has been more than the usual number of inquiries from United States points this year and the Royal's survey of Ontario and Quebec indicates that there are considerably more live stock than usual ready for exhibition, so that we are very satisfied that the Winter Fair will open with the best and most representative live stock displays which we have ever had."

"Although general conditions last November were anything but favourable, 1930 was the Royal's record year, not only in exhibits and attendance, but the spirit of the people at the show was happier than at any previous event. We feel sure that the spirit of optimism at that time has served a very useful purpose in that it has enabled Canadians better to view recent economic adjustments with equanimity. We believe that a similar result will be secured at the forthcoming Royal Winter Fair, and be more noticeable perhaps on account of the greater contrast in conditions."

"The Royal this year is designed to commemorate its founding and inauguration ten years ago, when in the depression that followed the war it helped so signally to restore confidence to Dominion agriculture generally. Since its birthday at that time it has established itself as an institution to which Canadians all over Canada have pointed with a very considerable pride."

"The Royal is entering upon its new cycle under conditions which permit it to perform a service to Canada in influencing the general outlook and state of mind of the Canadian people, apart altogether from its influence upon agriculture. The aim of the management is that everyone who visits the Royal and everyone who exhibits there shall be better equipped to meet whatever problems may cross their path in the immediate future."

Air May Replace Gasoline

Car Without Fuel Engine Equipment Demonstrated By Inventor

Roy J. Meyers, inventor, predicts motorists soon may refill their tanks with air instead of gasoline.

Meyers demonstrated an automobile with a six cylinder radial type engine, minus the usual carburetor and ignition and cooling systems, but equipped with a compressed air tank filled to 500 pounds pressure.

He pulled a lever and the car picked up speed quickly and smoothly, with a slight hiss of air from the exhaust valves. The motor was geared so the maximum speed reached was 35 miles per hour, but Meyers said that, with a gear shift and a higher speed engine, speeds equal to or higher than those of gasoline driven cars may be attained.

As the air goes through the engine, forcing pistons up and down, much of it is recaptured and recompressed. The cooled air returns to the pressure tank, which is heated by electricity from batteries and a generator.

This heating, he explained, expands the air in the tank, increasing the pressure. He did not make clear how many pounds of air would be required per mile.

THE HOUSE OF DREAMS-COME-TRUE

MARGARET FIEDLER

Author of "The Splendid Folly," "The Hermit of Par," Hodder & Stoughton, Ltd., London.

He made no answer, but released her instantly, and she was free to show him how well she could manage as he hurried on, struck the tip of the skate she was still wearing against a little hummock of frozen snow, and all but fell. He caught her as she stumbled.

"I think," he remarked dryly, "you would do well to sacrifice your independence till your feet are on more equal terms with one another."

Jean laughed ruefully.

"I think I should," she agreed meekly.

He led her to a seat of the prone trunk of a tree off to one side, then went in search of the missing skate. Returning in a few moments, he knelt beside her and fastened it on—securely this time—to the slender foot she extended towards him.

"You're much too incompetent to be out on the ice alone," he remarked as he buckled the last strap.

A faint flush of annoyance rose in Jean's cheeks at the uncompromising frankness of the observation.

"What are your friends thinking of to let you do such a thing?" he pursued, blandly ignoring her mute indignation.

"I have no friends here. I am—my own mistress," she replied tartly.

He was still kneeling in the snow in front of her. Now he sat back on his heels and subjected her face to a swift, smart scrutiny. Almost, she thought, she detected a sudden veiled suspicion in the keen glance.

"You're not the sort of girl to be knocking about—alone—at a hotel," he said at last, as though satisfied.

"How do you know what I'm like?" she retorted quickly. "You are hardly qualified to judge."

"Pardon, mademoiselle. I do not know what you are—but I do know very certainly what you are not. And—smiling a little—"I think we have just had ocular demonstration of the fact that you're not accustomed to fencing for yourself."

There was something singularly attractive about his smile. It lightened his whole face, contradicting the settled gravity that seemed habitual to it, and Jean found herself smiling back in response.

"Well, as a matter of fact, I'm not," she admitted. "I came here with my father, and he was—was suddenly called away. I am going on to stay with friends."

"This is my last day here," he remarked with sudden irrelevance. "I am off first thing tomorrow morning. You're not stopping at the hotel, are you?"

He shook his head.

"No. I'm staying at a friend's chalet a little way beyond it. Mais, voyons, mademoiselle, you will catch cold sitting there. Are you too frightened to try the ice again?"

He seemed to assume that her next essay would be made in his company. Jean spoke a little hurriedly.

"Oh, no. I was supposed to have a lesson with Monsieur Griotlet this morning. He is an instructor," she explained. "But he was engaged coaching someone else when I came out."

"And which is this Monsieur Griotlet? Can you see him?"

Jean's glance ranged over the scattered figures on the rink.

"Yes. There he is."

His eyes followed the direction indicated.

He seems to be well occupied at the moment," he commented. "Suppose—would you allow me to act as coach instead?"

She hesitated. This stranger appeared to be uncompromisingly progressive in his tendencies.

"I'm perfectly capable," he added curtly.

"I'm sure of that. But—" His eyes twinkled.

"But it would not be quite 'comme il faut' is that it?"

"Well, it wouldn't, would it?" she retorted.

His face grew suddenly grave, and she noticed that when in repose there were deep, straight lines on either side of his mouth—lines that are usually only furrowed by severe suffering, either mental or physical.

"Mademoiselle," he said quickly.

"To-day, it seems, we are two very lonely people. Couldn't we forget what is 'comme il faut' for once? We shall probably never meet again. We know nothing of each other—just 'ships that pass in the night.' Let us keep one another company—take this one day together."

He drew a step nearer to her.

"Will you?" he said. "Will you?"

He was looking down at her with eyes that were curiously bright and compelling. There was a tense note in his voice which she could not but detect, a tremor of consciousness tingling through her blood.

She knew that his proposal was impetuous, unconventional, even regarded from the standpoint of the modern broad interpretation of the word convention, and that by every law of Mrs. Grundy she ought to snub him soundly for his presumption and retrace her steps to the hotel with all the dignity at her command.

But she did none of these things. Instead, she stood hesitating, alternately flushing and paling beneath the oddly concentrated gaze he bent on her.

"I swear it shall bind you to nothing," he pursued urgently. "Not even to recognizing me in the street should our ways ever chance to cross again. Though that is hardly likely to occur."

With a shrug—"seeing that mademoiselle is French and that I am rarely out of England. It will be just one day that we shall have shared together out of the whole of life, and after that the 'darkness again and a silence.'"

"I can promise you the 'silence' if he added with a sudden harsh inflection.

It was that bitter note which won the day. In some subtle, subconscious way Jean sensed the pain which lay at the back of it. She answered impulsively.

"Very well. It shall be as you wish."

A rarely sweet smile curved the man's grave lips.

"Thank you," he said simply.

CHAPTER IV.

The Stolen Day

"Ecce uno fols! Bravo! That went better!"

Monsieur Griotlet's understudy had amply justified his claim to capability. After a morning's tuition at his hands, Jean found her prowess in the art of skating constantly enhanced. She was even beginning to master the mysteries of "cross-cuts" and "rocking turns," and a somewhat attenuated figure eight lay freshly scored on the ice to her credit.

"You are really a wonderful instructor," she acknowledged, surveying the graven witness to her progress with considerable satisfaction.

Her self-appointed teacher smiled.

"There is something to be said for the pupils also," he replied. "But now—glancing at his watch—"I vote we call a halt for lunch."

"Lunch!" Jean's glance measured the distance to the hotel with some dismay.

"But not lunch at the hotel," interrupted her companion quickly. Jean regarded him with curiosity.

"Where then, monsieur?"

"Up there!" he pointed towards the pine-woods. "Above the woods there is a but of sorts—erected as a shelter in case of sudden storms for people coming up from the lower valley to Montana and beyond. It's a rough little shanty, but it would serve very well as a temporary safe a stranger. It isn't a long climb," he added persuasively. "Are you too tired to take it on after your recent exertion?"

"Not in the least. But are you expecting a wayside refuge of that description to be miraculously endowed with a well-furnished larder?"

"No. But I think my knapsack can make good the deficiency," he replied composedly.

Jean looked at him with dancing eyes. Having once yielded to the day's unconventional adventure, she had surrendered herself wholeheartedly to the enjoyment of it.

She made no reservation, however. Some instinct of self-protection prevented her from enlightening her companion as to her partly English nationality. There was no real necessity for it, seeing that he spoke French with the utmost fluency, and his assumption that she was a Frenchwoman—her name in some way to limit the feeling of intimacy, conferring on her, as it were, a little of the freedom of an incognito.

"A la bonne heure!" she exclaimed gaily. "So you invite me to share your lunch, monsieur le professeur?"

"I've invited you to share my day, haven't I?" he replied, smiling.

They steered for the bank, and when he had helped off her skates and removed his own, clinging them over his arm, they started off along the steep white track which wound its way upwards through the pine-woods.

As they left the bright sunlight behind them, it seemed as though they plunged suddenly into another world—a still, mysterious, twilight place, where the snow underfoot muffled the sound of their steps and the long shadows of the pine trees barred their path with sinister, distorted shapes.

Making More Butter

A statement just issued by the Dominion Dairy and Cold Storage Branch shows that butter production in Canada has apparently increased during the seven months ending July, 1931, by 25,379,726 pounds, or about 15.5 per cent, as compared with the corresponding period last year.

WHEN FOOD SOURS

ABOUT two hours after eating stomachs suffer from indigestion. They call it indigestion. It means that the stomach nerves have been over-stimulated. There is excess acid. The way to correct it is with an alkali, which neutralizes many times its volume in acid.

The right way is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia—just a teaspoonful dose in water. It is pleasant, efficient and harmless. Results come almost instantly. It is the approved method. You will never use another when you know.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for correcting excess acids. See a bottle—any drug store.

Germany Building Glass Houses

Young Woman Architect Predicts They Will Be Common

People who live in glass houses will be no more exceptional than those whose dwellings are brick, stone or wood ten or fifteen years from now, according to Margaret V. Van Pelt, young New York architect. Miss Van Pelt, who recently became a member of a long established New York firm of architects, has returned to work in her New York office after a year studying trends in architecture in Europe.

"The Germans are building glass houses already," she explained. "I saw several of them. Of course the glass has to be of the strongest sort. They are using glass also to decorate interiors. Sometimes it is transparent and sometimes black."

"Glass, metal and strong colour contrasts in decorating exteriors are the newest notes in building design in Germany. The tendency toward geometric effects is even more marked than in our American skyscrapers. City blocks in which pink, blue, beige and mauve coloured houses stand side by side are being erected."

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

SUNFLOWER'S SONG

The sunflower owes allegiance to no thing but the sun. But, ah! how can she meet the hours When day is done?

Her fealty is splendid, Her very heart she bares; But as dusk deepens she must know What bleak despair!

I know how she must shudder Through the black abyss of night; In all the whirling universe No golden light!

I know how she must ache for The signal-lights of dawn; Her fear-filled vigils I can share Since you are gone!

Yet outward I am looking, Morn's gates are almost won; I lift my petals up in hope, Come back, my sun!

How To Avoid Colds

Eating Plenty Of Vegetables and Fruit Is Good Preventative

"I caught a cold" is about the simplest expression heard today. No one tries to catch a cold. The trouble with us is that we do not try very hard to keep a cold from catching us. That is why we meet so many people who are complaining about what happened when the weather changed. Only about 17 persons out of each 100 manage to get through a year without suffering from at least a mild cold. Some people suffer several times during the year.

One of the most important things you can do, both to prevent and to correct colds, is to keep your body as alkaline as possible. Vegetables, fruits and milk in the diet will do this.

If, however, you feel a cold coming on take a hot bath and get into a warm bed immediately. Then drink a full glass of hot lemonade. Squeeze the juice of a lemon into a half glass of water. Stir in a half teaspoon of baking soda and drink it while it bubbles. Repeat this three times a day until your cold has disappeared. Remember, however, that if your cold fails to respond promptly your physician should be interviewed. A little cold is often a dangerous thing.

For Poor Sportsmen

Genoese Has Ingenious Invention To Aid In Catching Fish

Poor sportsmen would welcome an ingenious invention to aid in catching fish. A Genoese fisherman fitted a light and some clockwork to a number of lines. When the fish tugs at the line the light begins to flash and the clockwork starts to wind in the line. When the fisherman gets to it all he has to do is remove the fish and rebait the hook to start the process again. The original invention utilized twenty lines.

Health cannot be looked for in the child that is subject to worms, because worms destroy health by retarding internal disturbances that retard development and cause serious weakness. Miller's Worm Powders expel worms and are so beneficial in their action that the systems of the little sufferers are restored to healthfulness, all the discomfort and dangers of worm infection are removed, and satisfactory growth is assured.

"Yes—"I only got two worms" vacation this year."

Beas—"How was that?"

"Yes—"The boss went away the same time I did."

When You CAN'T QUIT

Fatigue is the signal to rest. Obey it if you can. When you're fed up, keep cool and carry-on in comfort.

Aspirin was meant for just such times, for it insures your comfort. Freedom from those pains that nag at nerves and wear you down. One tablet will block that threatening headache while it is still just a threat. Take two or three tablets when you've caught a cold, and that's usually the end of it.

Carry Aspirin tablets when you travel. Have some at home and keep some at the office. Like an efficient secretary, they will often "save the day" and spare you many uncomfortable, unproductive hours. Aspirin is harmless, so keep it handy, keep it in mind, and use it. No man of affairs can afford to ignore the score and more of uses explained in the proven directions. From a grumbling tooth to those rheumatic pains which seem almost to bend the bones, Aspirin tablets are ready with quick relief—and always work. Neuralgia. Neuritis. Any nagging, needless pain.

Get the genuine tablets, stamped with the Bayer cross. They are of perfect purity, absolute uniformity, and have the same action every time. Why experiment with imitations costing a few cents less? The saving is too little. There is too much at stake. But there is economy in the purchase of genuine Aspirin tablets in the large bottles.

Treasure Seekers May Carry Arms To Guard Against Sea Pirates

Precautions against hijackers, such as occasionally laid rich liquor laden ships, will be taken by Lieut.-Col. J. E. Leckie, head of the Vancouver expedition which in a few weeks will sail to Cocos Island to search for the buried treasure of ancient pirates.

Col. Leckie has communicated with the Department of National Defence seeking permission to arm his ship against eventualities on the sea or on Cocos Island. Col. Leckie wants the use of machine guns and "pom-poms," which are in the arsenal at Esquimalt. Even if this permission is not granted, the ship will be armed against possible sea raiders. Col. Leckie has already arranged to carry privately owned machine guns and numerous rifles.

Little Helps For This Week

"In your patience possess ye your souls."—Luke xxi. 19.

Hold in thy murmurs Heaven arraignment; The patient see God's loving face; Who bear their burdens uncomplaining.

'Tis they that win the Father's grace.

The soul loses command of itself when it is impatient. Whereas, when it submits without a murmur, it possesses itself in peace, and possesses God. To be impatient is to desire what we have not, or not to desire what we have. An impatient soul is a prey to passions unrestrained by reason or faith. What weakness, what delusion! When we acquiesce in an evil, it is no longer such. Why make a real calamity of it by resistance? Peace does not dwell in outward things, but within the soul. We may preserve it in the midst of bitterest pain if our will remains firm and submissive. Peace in this life springs from acquiescence even in disagreeable things, not in an exemption from bearing them.

"Tony" Vejprava, of Blaimore, and Bill Gates, of Coleman, have been suspended from all sport activities until December 31, 1931. It appears that these two athletes, outstanding in the Crows' Nest Pass, participated in a baseball game that was not properly sanctioned by the amateur authorities. The suspension of the two such splendid athletes as Vejprava and Gates should have been overlooked by the authorities. Both have been a credit to the various games that they have participated in, and I figure a warning should have been sufficient. Vejprava has been a star with the Blaimore hockey team for several winters. It's rather tough to keep him out of early season games, just because of his baseball activities. Representatives of Safeways Limited were in Blaimore this week, endeavoring to secure a building or premises suitable for a branch store. In connection with Safeways, or any other outfit desiring to come-in and compete with well established local firms, we would suggest they be required to invest money in property and become, as the rest of us, real tax payers—and if possible, purchase lots and build their own premises. Otherwise they are really not entitled to your patronage. The Safeway stores, like other organizations of their kind, do not intend to leave much money in the small community.
